QUEEN OF THE MAY ELECTED

COLLEGE STUDENTS HONOR MISS GLADYS SOMERVILLE.

CORONATION MAY 23

Womens Physical Education Department and Others Hard at Work in Preparing for Festival.

When all the court is assembled and the gala event of the year is underway, the crown of the Queen of the May will be placed upon the head of Miss Gladys Somerville, chosen by the students of the State Teachers College to preside at the annual May festival, May 23.

Miss Somerville, a junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Somerville of Gallatin, was chosen out of a field of six candidates nominated for this honor last week. The other five nominees were Miss Susie Hankins, previously selected junior "Tower" queen; Miss Mary Fields, previously selected senior "Tower" queen; Miss Hesterlynn Shipps; Miss Alyce Hastings; and Miss Lucile Sturm.

The pageant this year will take place in front of the administration building. The women's physical education department is entrusted with a greater part of the responsibility for the splendor of the affair and there is a great flurry of preparation. Practically all general gymnasium classes are at work on dances to be presented before the Queen on the gala day, and others are being drilled in the intricacies of beautifully and gracefully winding the May Pole, a scene which will be one of the most impressive of the entire day.

The fine arts department is hard at work creating beautiful things ,and nearly every College student and faculty member will have felt the pressure of the impending occasion before a very long time elapses.

College training school, demonstration school, and Franklin school students are involved in the preparation.

The theme of the pageant is the "Gifts of the Earth." Of these gifts there are seven: flowers, trees, fire, water, fruits, grains and minerals. Goddesses representing each will dance before the Queen of the May. The winding of the May Pole will cap the entertainment of the day with all the picturesqueness that this pageantry can produce.

Cooperating with Dr. Edith J. Saxman, head of the women's physical education department and manager of the May Fete entertainment, and Miss Helen M. Barton, of this department, are Miss Opal Spohn, Miss Margaret Putman, Miss Ruth England and Miss Martha Ellen Brandt. Mrs. Clun Price, of the College faculty, will direct the flower and train girls.

POPE ASSERTS FAITH, MORALS ON DECLINE

Occurs Even in Midst of Christian People and Those Dedicated to God, He Says.

Rome, May 11.—"A universal decline in faith and morals," was complained of by the Pope today in an encyclical.

The decline, he said, had occurred "even in the midst of Christian people and ranks of persons particularly dedicated to God."

When the Fascist-vatican dispute over the Pope's temporal power was acute recently, it was forecast widely that the encyclical would deal with controversal questions.

It was expected that both the questions of nationalism and of church and state relations would be discussed. Instead the encyclical dealh with the amends the whole of mankind should make for its sins.

Individuals, families, subjects and rulers, the Pope said, should make amends to the "sacret heart of Jesus."

Cardinals and the personnel of the papal court today presented the Pope with greetings and best wishes in connection with his birthday, which occurs tomorrow.

Three Buildings on Tebow Farm Burned

Destruction of Machines, Meat and Lard Adds to Loss.—Some Insurance.

The chicken house, brooder house and smoke house on the J. L. Tebow farm, three and a half miles northwest of Maryville, were burned early yesterday afternoon. The loss has not been estimated but will be rather heavy, as meat, lard and small farm machins, as well as the houses, were burned. Insurance on the buildings was carried.

On Wednesday the chicken house had been cleaned with a spray, and yesterday Mr. Tebow had started to burn the trash which had been taken out of the chicken house. The spray which had been aplied evidently was highly inflammable and the building burst into flames almost instantly. It spread to the other two buildings which were destroyed completely.

Go to Liberty for Funeral Services

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tebow and daughter, Mrs. Scott Sawyers of St. Joseph, who were called to Liberty Monday on account of the death of Mrs. J. H. McComas, who died suddenly Sunday evening, returned Wednesday evening accompanied by Mrs. G. L. Epperson of Ault, Colo., who arrived in Kansas City early Tuesday morning. Mrs. Epperson and Mrs. Tebow are sisters of J. H. McComas. Mrs. Epperson will spend a few days with her sister and Mr. Epperson's relatives before returning home.

$49,150 GIVEN HOOVER FUND

$42,033 SPENT SO FAR, CAMPAIGN DIRECTOR SAYS.

FORD LARGEST DONOR

Contributions Range From $5,000 Down.—Curtis-for-President Leader Also Testifies.

Washington, May 11.—The Hoover-for-President organization here has spent $42,033.16 and accepted contributions of $49,150, James R. Good, campaign director, told the Senate campaign investigating committee today.

The largest contributor was Edsel Ford, son of the Detroit automobile manufacturer, Good said. Ford gave $5,000.

Senator Walter Edge, Republican, New Jersey, was listed with a donation of $1,000.

"Shortly after President Coolidge announced he would not be a candidate, friends of Mr. Hoover started organizing in various states," Good said.

"Our organization was made primarily to answer questions which being propounded to the Secretary."

Objects to "Speech."

Good said Hoover was "as good as nominated." Senator McMaster, Republican, South Dakota, objected that Good was making a campaign speech when he discussed Hoover's availability.

Chairman Steiwer asked Good how many pages more there were in his prepared statement and Good answered he wanted the senators to hear his statement.

Steiwer insisted the witness be permitted to laud Hoover in any way he chose, "although in my opinion it is irrelevant." Good thereupon was permitted to continue his statement.

Hoover wrote the committee today that he had conferred with Senators Sackett, Republican, Kentucky, and Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, before entering the West Virginia primary. He had declined Wednesday to give the names.

"In respect to inquiries by Senator Bratton, I have received approval of Senators Moses and Sackett to state that they held discussions both with Senator Goff and myself," Hoover stated in his letter.

Curtis Leader Testifies.

Former Representative Phil P. Campbell was today's first witness. He testified he was president of a local Curtis-for-President organization and had spent $472.25. Contributions amounted, he said, to $590.

"All we are doing is writing to delegates already selected and attempting to influence them," Campbell said.

The contributions listed by Good included:

$3,500—Julias Rosenwald, Chicago.

$3,000—Alter E. Hope, New York attorney.

$2,500—Rep. Franklin Fort, New Jersey; Paul Kuenther, Dover, N. J.; H. L. Moses, New York attorney.

$2,000—V. E. Macy, Long Island retired business man.

$1,500—R. L. Chapin, Arthur Waterfall and Alvin McCauley, all of Detroit.

Several made contributions of $1,000 and $500.

Total Under Quarter Million.

Good said the total expense of Hoover clubs and organizations up to convention time would be less than $250,000. Expenses listed by Good include $5,417 for postage, printing and mailing, $13,432 for headquarters rent and $5,676 for traveling expenses, and $3,948.13 advances to the Kansas City headquarters.

FROWNS UPON TOBACCO FOR M. E. PASTORS

Methodist Itineracy Committee Makes Report Regarding Use of Tobacco in Any Form.

Kansas City, Mo., May 11.—Tobacco in any form for Methodist ministers still is looked upon with disfavor by the committee on itineracy of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Reporting today to the general conference of the church the committee rendered a decision on the elimination from the Methodist Discipline of this question, which candidates for the ministry must answer:

"Will you wholly abstain from the use of tobacco?"

Members of the committee voted as follows:

For retention of the question in the Discipline, 98.

Against retention of the question in the Discipline, 0.

Present, but not voting, 5.

The report of the committee to the general conference is expected to come up for adoption this afternoon or tomorrow.

Donald Goforth left this afternoon for Phoenix, Ariz., where he will join the Ham Crawford recording orchestra of 13 pieces. The orchestra will play this summer at River View Park in Phoenix.

Boston-Berlin Flight Discussed by Germans

Crew of Transatlantic Plane Bremen Say Such an Air Trip Is a Possibility.

Chicago, May 11.—Capt. Herman Koehl of the crew of the transatlantic plane Bremen, told the United press today that he and Major James Fitzmaurice and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld have discussed a possible flight from Boston to Berlin in their plane, the Bremen.

Koehl said, however, no definite plans had been made and that it was merely a possibility over which they had talked along with other tentative plans for the future.

Major Fitzmaurice told the United Press that such a flight might take place, but that for the present the three fliers have no definite plans.

WANT G. O. P. AS DRY PARTY

MOVE IS LAUNCHED AT METHODIST CONFERENCE.

TO FOLLOW NEW YORK

Meeting Is Called for May 18 to Urge Republican Candidate Favoring Prohibition.

Kansas City, Mo., May 11.—Efforts to make the Republican party the stronghold of "dry" forces throughout the United States were started at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here today.

Copies of a resolution adopted by the New York conference, urging New York Republican leaders to nominate prohibition candidates for governor and senator, were to be distributed to other conferences for similar action.

The New York delegation which formulated the resolution represents the territory immediately surrounding New York City. Their plan is to get the other New York state conferences to make similar demands on the Republican party leaders.

General Meeting May 18.

A general meeting has been called for May 18 to enroll all delegates interested in a campaign to persuade the Republican party to nominate a dry candidate to oppose the expected Democratic candidacy of Governor Al Smith of New York.

The resolution adopted by the New York conference last night follows in part:

"If the present governor of New York becomes the candidate of his party and if the United States senator from that states whose term is expiring is renominated for the Senate, the dry voters of the state will have nothing to hope for from the Democratic party.

"Two years ago when the Republican party nominated wet candidates for governor and United States senator, 235,000 voters unable to violate their conscience supported the independent dry candidate for senator and more than a million others, approximately one-half million of whom were enrolled Republicans, remained away from the polls altogether.

Ask Dry Candidates.

"If the Republicans nominate wet candidates for governor and United States senator again this year, there will be the same resentment on the part of Christian citizens who cannot conscientiously support wet candidates for those offices any more than they could support a wet candidate for the Presidency.

"We therefore, ask you to nominate dry candidates for governor and United States senator. . If such men are nominated we believe they can be elected and that the state can likewise be carried for a dry Republican candidate for the Presidency."

The resolution was addressed to Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman, George K. Norirs, state chairman and Lafayette B. Gleason, state secretary of the New York Republican organization.

Judge Schmitz was the father of Mrs. Laura Schmitz, a member of the board of regents of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, and well known here.

AN APPEAL TO LEAGUE

CHINESE NATIONALISTS PROTEST JAPAN'S ACTS.

ACTION IS DOUBTFUL

Complaint Must Be Brought by Member—Tsinan Falls to Advancing Japanese.

By United Press.

With Japanese soldiers holding Tsinan city and the Tsinan-Tsingtao railway after a determined fight in which casualties were severe, the Chinese Nationalist government appealed to the League of Nations today to intervene.

Japan showed every determination to carry through her announced intention of protecting her citizens and property in Shantung Province. She charged that Nationalist troops, entering Tsinan on their drive northward to capture Peking—the seat of the opposing northern government in the civil war—looted Japanese buildings and killed Japanese subjects.

Chinese Deny Charge.

The Nationalist government in its appeal to the League, denied the charge and said Japanese troops stationed at Tsinan caused the trouble by making impossible demands of the Nationalist forces and—without waiting for compliance—attacking Nationalist soldiers.

The Manchester Guardian's Tsinan correspondent, an eye-witness to the early fighting, said in a dispatch today that he doubted whether the truth ever would be known.

"My opinion," he said, "Is that the presence of Japanese troops and some 100,000 Nationalists, flushed with victory, created an atmosphere which rendered some kind of an explosion inevitable."

Further fighting at Tsinan is threatened at any time, although Nationalists appear to have been defeated for the moment. Their forces are far superior in numbers, though almost hopelessly inferior in armament and discipline. Japanese airplanes are there.

Claim Intentions Peaceful.

Japan seemed making every effort to convince international opinion that her intentions were peaceful. Her intervention in Shantung long had been forecast because of her great interests there.

The Nationalist drive toward Peking seemed definitely halted. Japanese troops and a 14-mile neutral zone they have occupied along the railway are in the path.

Chinese generally were more concerned about the Japanese occupation than their own civil war. In the south, efforts were being made to impose an anti-Japanese boycott. Such a boycott might lead to a greatly more serious situation, as it might mean the outbreak of anti-Japanese and anti-foreign riots when feeling became inflamed.

American Woman Slain.

Peking, China, May 11.—Mrs. W. T. Hobart, American Methodist missionary at Tsinan, has been murdered by Chinese troops, the American legation was advised today.

The murder occurred in Tsinan on April 29, the reports reaching here said.

There had been rumors that the American had been killed but official reports of confirmation had been delayed.

9 Japanese Killed, 117 Wounded.

Tokio, May 11.—Japanese casualties were 9 killed and 117 wounded in today's fighting with Chinese Nationalists in the city of Tsinan, it was announced officially. Chinese casualties were huge.

Appeal Made to League.

Geneva, May 11.—The Chinese Nationalist government today appealed to the League of Nations against Japanese intervention in Shantung Province.

The Nationalist government's appeal was made under paragraph two, Article 11, of the League covenant, on the ground that the Shantung situation was one threatening to disturb international relations.

The appeal was made direct from Nanking, headquarters of the Nationalist government.

It was complained that Japan was sending large numbers of troops to Shantung and that they were committing acts of war.

Charges Firing Without Cause.

The appeal charged that Japanese soldiers at Tsinan May 3 fired on Chinese soldiers without provocation, and then opened gunfire on residential quarters causing more than 1,000 casualties.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

USES OF TORN PAPER.

A considerable portion of the thousands of dollars that New York City cheerfully spends on its official welcomes to aviators and other celebrities goes to pay for cleaning up the waste paper, ticker tape and confetti thrown from office windows along the line of march. The number of tons of paper so picked up is a gauge for the success of the celebration.

When the German and Irish flyers were welcomed on April 30, about 1,500 tons of paper were cleaned up the next day at an estimated cost of $16,000. The Lindbergh celebration yielded a 1,700-ton harvest. The weather was bad when Byrd, Chamberlin and their companions were welcomed, so that only 700 tons of paper were used. Gertrude Ederle's reception — which came before celebrations had evolved very far—took only 400 tons.

It is said that it required 1,200 men, 60 trucks and 100 motor-driven flushers, working from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., to do the latest clean-up job. Isn't there an idea here for unemployment relief in the future? Let city officials suggest to occupants of office buildings that they tear up all available paper and throw it out of the windows. Then the officials can set throngs of men to work cleaning it up again.

TWO DETROIT INDUSTRIES.

Detroit, it appears, has another industry almost as notable as the motor industry, and second only to it. It's automotive turnover—cars, trucks, bodies and assessories—is said to be $1,800,000,000 a year. Its rum turnover is declared to be $215,000,000 a year.

The authority vouching for these figures says there are 50,000 Detroiters engaged in the liquor business, one in every 35 of the metropolitan population.

The 70-mile stretch of river, of which Detroit is the center, is a funnel-neck through which Canadian booze pours into the United States.

If this is true, and the rum-smuggling traffic of the northcentral states is concentrated there, a mere citizen would suppose that the public authorities would do something about it. Or is the one-in-thirty-five too powerful?

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

There came before the Egyptian Senate a bill that would prohibit police from interfering with assemblies or processions unless an actual breach of the peace occurred. Great Britain objected when the measure seemed about to pass, rushed warships to Alexandria. So Egypt postpones action for the present. Rights in England are not rights in Egypt.

Britain not long ago announced that she was getting out of Egypt and leaving that country to govern itself, with certain reservations. Every little while the Egyptians start taking their "self-determination" seriously then there is trouble with paternalistic John Bull. The Egyptians used to worship a bull—but not that one.

You can't blame John for taking measures to safeguard the Suez Canal, his route to the East, an essential link in his chain of world empire. But it's hard sometimes on the tempermental Egyptians.

HERDS OF TURKEYS.

There is a new industry in Montana. A corporation has been organized to raise turkeys on a big scale. The birds are to be handled as if they were sheep. Thousands of acres will be leased for them to graze over, and there will be herdsmen to look after them.

What will they eat? Insects—mostly grasshoppers, it is expected. It will be a fine thing if Thanksgiving turks can be fattened by consuming an agricultural pest, without hurting their flavor—of which there seems to be some question. Some of the other states should consider this twofold enterprise.

The course of municipal legislation seems to be ruffled in various places. Jefferson City is without police, owing to a disagreement between the chief of police and council. In Columbia the chief of police had a heated argument with the council and died of an apoplectic stroke afterward. In Moberly there have been no casualties so far but the city is without a street force and without an adequate police force.

What Other Editors Say

As It Looks in St. Louis.

Just when it appeared Missouri was to have a nice, ladylike campaign, with aspirants for the United States senatorship evading disagreeable topics and dwelling hard upon platitudes, the scene suddenly shifts. James A. Collet started it when he asserted he is not so wet as the friends of Charles M. Hay, rival aspirant for the Democratic nomination for senator, says he is. That necessitated a comeback from Mr. Hay. In his opening speech at Fulton recently, Mr. Hay, who had been inclined to pussyfoot on the dry issue, came out squarely as a dry. He resented the insinuation that in this campaign he is wet in the cities and dry outside. He is dry everywhere, he asserts, and always has been. That assures a lively campaign.

Mr. Hay's preliminary gesture of friendliness with Senator Reed, who himself has pussyfooted on the liquor issue in his presidential campaign, failed to line Reed up for him. Reed has declared for Mr. Collet. Everyone knows that is a wet alliance, regardless of what Reed and Collet say. Everyone knows also that Mr. Hay is dry, and has been a leader of the dry forces in the state for years. Why should either try to beat around the bush? It can't be done when prohibition is a daily topic of discussion.—St Louis Star.

BARBS

Give Us a Bigger Navy.

The United States Navy has just detailed Lieut. Comm. P. W. H. Weems to teach Col. Lindbergh to navigate. Now we advocate a commission be appointed to teach General Sandino how to dodge. . . . And we used to think the firemen on an oil-burning locomotive had a soft job. . . . Too bad we hadn't a navy when Christopher Columbus set out to discover us. A maritime subcommission might have been assigned to show the gentleman how to furl a sail.

Two young men of Lynn, Mass., told police they had been forced to walk home after taking a couple of young ladies out for a ride. The boys shouldn't take such chances.

A genealogist figures that Hoover's near and distant relatives in this country number 947,356. But maybe his friends can elect him in spite of that.

Senator Heflin now is taking liberal whacks at both Smith and Hoover. Well, the senator is liberal about that, anyway.

These are dangerous days. A man never knows when he goes home early whether or not the lawnmower is going to be in the front yard.

The Campaign Log

May 11—By United Press.

Hoke Smith of Georgia, Secretary of the Interior in the Cleveland administration, said he believed Governor Smith would be the Democratic presidential nominee.

Former Governor Samuel McKelvie of Nebraska, said that an attempt to combine the anti-Hoover sentiment in the mid-western corn belt and the conservative quarters of the East would fail to defeat the Commerce Secretary for the Republican nomination.

Campaign managers for Herbert Hoover and Senator Charles Curtis were called before the Senate campaign investigating committee today.

Tennessee Democrats in convention instructed their 24 delegates to vote for Representative Cordell Hull at the Democratic national convention.

Fourteen of Utah's sixteen Democratic delegates, with one-half vote each, decided to vote for Governor Smith at the Houston convention. The delegation had been uninstructed.

Fairfax Colby, a member of Senator Reed's California committee, announced that a prominent "Southern Democrat" had consented to head a third party movement. He would not divulge the name.

Morphine Taken From Barnard Drug Store

A thief, thought to be a dope fiend, broke into the Hargrave drug store and the office of Dr. C. D. Humberd of Barnard Monday night. Three vials of morphine tablets and one-eighth ounce of powdered morphine were taken from the drug store. A small amount of drugs was taken from Dr. Humbred's office, according to the Barnard Bulletin.

AN APPEAL TO LEAGUE

"Then, on May 7," the Nationalist complaint said, "the Japanese military authorities at Tsinan sent a note to our commander-in-chief containing unreasonable and impossible demands, and demanding compliance with them within twelve hours. But without awaiting a reply, the Japanese troops started warlike action on an extensive scale, which had not ceased at the present writing."

The League secretariat immediately telegraphed the text of the Chinese appeal to all governments represented on the League council, or governing body.

Any Action Doubtful.

It was extremely doubtful, however, whether the League could act on the appeal, because the Nationalist government is not a member of the League and is not the recognized government of China.

But if the northern government at Peking should support the charge, or some other League member should call the council's attention to the situation, or if Japan herself requested the League to intervene, action would be possible.

Japanese Occupy Tsinan.

Tsingtao, China, May 11.—Tsinan has fallen before the vigorous drive of the Japanese expeditionary forces and the Chinese Nationalist army has evacuated, it was learned here today.

Vigorous fighting preceded the rout of General Chiang Kai Shek's remaining forces, estimated at about 2,000.

The remnants of the southern army for hours had bitterly resisted the Japanese approach and had signaled they would not surrender even though Japanese planes whirled overhead and the Japanese gunners laid down a steady barrage on the walled city.

The evacuation of the entrenchments within the walled city, a section adjoining the main commercial area of Tsinan, came after the Chinese chamber of commerce had intervened.

Army's Flight Sudden.

The army fled suddenly, leaving the Japanese in control of the city. Already they had cleared a path between their lines and the walled city and had taken over part of that stronghold.

The Japanese were halting their fire to demand surrender when the Chinese evacuated the city.

The Japanese made a bitter attack to advance through the area surrounding the walled city and captured and disarmed a number of scattered Chinese units. The Chinese resisted but could present no solid front against the approaching Japanese.

Once the Japanese arrived at the walled city they advanced, took about half of it, and then called a halt to the operations and started surrender tactics.

Airplanes were sent over the entrenched Chinese soldiers and the fliers dropped leaflets advising the Chinese to surrender. The Chinese would not do this.

For about three hours this practice went on and finally the 2,000 besieged troopers evacuated the city.

Wu to Appeal to U. S.

Paris, May 11.—Dr. C. C Wu, former foreign minister of the Nanking government and now Nationalist delegate in Paris, announced today he would sail immediately for the United States to confer with Secretary of State Kellogg and to lay the entire Shantung situation before the American people.

"The tremendous issues involved affect the Americans only slightly less than the Chinese," Dr. Wu told the United Press. "It is necessary therefore that America decide what action, if any, should be taken.

"Japan's dispatch of large military forces into Shantung and occupation of the strategic province is obviously a violation of the treaties signed in Washington in 1922," Dr. Wu said.

He was asked the relation between the present Japanese-Chinese situation and Japan's 21 demands on China in 1925, and he said that foreign minister Tanaka had advocated this aggressive policy.

"Now Tanaka is both premier and foreign minister and is thereby enabled to continue his previous policy to a greater degree," the Chinese delegate said.

Many Ministers Not Literal Believers

Biblical Story of Creation Supported by Only 48 Per Cent in Chicago Survey.

Chicago, May 11.—Ministers who disbelieve in the Bible's version of the creation of the world outnumber the believers in Chicago.

A survey made by Prof. George Betts of the Northwestern University division of religious education revealed that 47 per cent of the clergymen questioned believe the Genesis description, 48 per cent disbelieve it and 5 per cent are "doubtful."

Professor Betts questioned the ministers on the most controversial subjects in religion and found unanimity on only one question—"Do you believe that God exists?"

Seventy-one per cent of the ministers believed in the virgin birth, while 19 per cent did not.

Only 64 per cent believed prayer could change conditions of nature, such as drought.

Fifty-eight per cent believed that a person's status for eternity was determined by his spiritual status at the time of death.

Fifty per cent believed that pain and suffering were provided by God for the good of the world.

"Based on the entire list of questions, the Lutherans are strictly the most conservative and the Congregationalists the least conservative of the twenty denominations represented, Professor Betts' report said: "The Evangelical group probably come second in conservatism, followed by the Episcopalian, with the Presbyterians and Baptists even competitors for the next place. The Methodists come next after the Congregationalists in liberalism."

May Seek Release of Two Coast Guardsmen

U. S. Insists on Prosecution in Federal Courts for Shooting of Buffalo Elk.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 11.—District Attorney Raymond A. Knowles of Niagara county may ask for a writ of habeas corpus today for custody of the two coast guardsmen who shot and seriously wounded Jacob D. Hanson, prominent Niagara Falls Elk.

United States District Attorney Richard H. Templeton refused to order the surrender to state officials of Glenn Jennings and Christ Dew, the men involved in the shooting. Jennings and Dew are held at Fort Niagara.

Templeton said the men would be held by federal authorities for prosecution in federal courts. The state claims it has the right to try the men, who are charged with second degree assault.

Hanson's condition is so serious physicians fear he will not live long. He is sightless in one eye and has a fractured skull. Should he die, the charge against Jennings and Dew will be changed to murder, Knowles said.

While the argument between state and federal authorities waged, friends of the wounded man went ahead with plans for a mass demonstration of protest. The state armory at Niagara Falls will be used on May 17 for an indignation meeting.

What Nodaway County Churches Are Doing

THE LORD HATH NEED OF THEE

Comment on the Uniform International Series for May 13, 1928. Read Mark 11.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

Ready for his entry into Jerusalem where he was to be crucified, Jesus told two of his disciples to go into the city, to turn down a certain street and walk a certain number of blocks and they would see an ass tied to a door. He told them to go and take the animal and bring it to him. He further said that the owner would probably object and if any questions were asked for them to say "The Lord hath need of it."

Things happened as he had foretold. They found the animal at the place designated, tied to a door. The owner objected but when the words "The Lord hath need of it" were repeated made no further objection.

The incident in itself is interesting enough but seemed to me almost trivial until the words "The Lord hath need of it" kept ringing in my mind. The owner of the ass might have known Jesus, he might have been his friend, if so his willingness is readily explained. Yet to me the words keep ringing, ringing to each one of us today. The Lord is asking us for something every day. He asks me to do something with my life and says "The Lord hath need of it." I wonder if I have answered as did the owner of the ass?

The Lord asks a man who has a lot of money for some of that money with which to build a hospital, or to pay the expenses of a medical missionary to China, or to educate poor boys. He says the Lord hath need of hospitals, of missionaries, of educated and useful boys.

The other Sunday your pastor asked you if you would not take a class. You did not want to do the work necessary to make the class a success. You refused. The Lord had a need for you that day. In your business and in your life the Lord points out things you might do and says the Lord hath need of you. That is what I have gotten out of this phrase, out of this story told by Mark about the ass.

Mark tells in detail about the entry into Jerusalem. The triumphal march, the shouting mob, the almost hysterical people throwing palms on the ground to make a path, and adding their outer garments as a carpet. They shouted for him as though he were a reigning monarch. There rode he along a lane of humanity, pressing forward on both sides and shouting. He sat upon the back of an ass riding the animal which was the burden bearer of the people, the worker of peace, not a proud charger, a richly caparisoned horse, for horses were used for war. Even in his last few days everything he did was significant.

And then, only a few days later, the same crowd, the same leather lunged men who proclaimed him, stood with hard eyes and scowling faces and gruff profanity and saw him on the cross.

Important incidents come thick and fast in this last week. On Sunday afternoon he had entered the outer court of the temple, he had seen the money changers at work at their tables, he had seen the sellers of doves and of other things busily making money out of the tokens of worship. Today in old world temples you will find beggars at the entrance, professional beggars with assumed deformities, you will see stands filled with trinkets at the door of the cathedrals and hear the strident voices of the men and women begging for lira or francs or pesos. They are commercializing faith of others.

The scene evidently weighed on the mind of Jesus. The next morning he returned to the temple with a firm purpose. He made a weapon by twisting rushes into a whip and then overturned the tables, scattered the money and drove the bargainers and the usurpers from the sacred court.

I would have liked to have seen his face then. I think that it expressed anger and indignation. I think, also, that his expression must have been such that the men who could easily have ganged up on him gave one look and were afraid. We so often picture our Lord as a sissy, as a womanish man with his long fair hair and saintly face, opposed to war and to anger. Here we see him as a strong, virile purposeful man, ready to dare when it is necessary.

I am afraid I am a coward sometimes. I know that many times when I should have interfered and rebuked a wrong, I have kept silent. I know that I have walked away saying nothing when I should have spoken up for my faith. Jesus may have been a pacifist, I think he was, but when the time came to fight for the right he was there and he did not flinch. I no longer think of Jesus as a mild, pink tea kind of man, I think of him as he appeared to the disciples on the Mount of Transfiguration, as a Moses, leader without peer, as a John the Baptist who stood firm for his spoken word and died, as an Elijah who defied kings. Jesus was not a namby-pamby dreamer.

JESUS ENTERS JERUSALEM.

Lesson Text.—Mark 11:1-10, 15-18. Read Mark 11, the entire chapter.

1. And when they draw night unto Jerusalem, unto Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount of Olives, he sendeth two of his disciples.
2. and saith unto them, Go your way into the village that is over against you; and straightway as ye enter into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereupon no man ever yet sat; loose him, and bring him.
3. And if anyone say unto you, Why do ye this? say ye, The Lord hath need of him; and straightway he will send him back hither.
4. And they went away, and found a colt tied at the door without in the open street; and they loose him.
5. And certain of them that stood there said unto them, What do yo, loosing the colt?
6. And they said unto them even as Jesus had said; and they let them go.
7. And they bring the colt unto Jesus, and cast on him their garments; and he sat upon him.
8. And many spread their garments upon the way; and others branches, which they had cut from the fields.
9. And they that went before, and they that followed cried, Hosanna, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord:
10. Blessed is the kingdom that cometh, the kingdom of our father David. Hosanna in the highest.
15. And they come to Jerusalem; and he entered into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and them that bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold the doves;
16. and he would not suffer that any man should carry a vessel through the temple.
17. And he taught, and said unto them, Is it not written, My house shall be called a house of prayer for all the nations? but ye have made it a den of robbers.
18. And the chief priest and the scribes heard it, and sought how they might destroy him: for they feared him, for all the multitude was astonished at his teaching.

Goldent Text—Behold, thy king cometh unto thee: he is just, and having salvation.—Zechariah 9:9.

(Text is from the American Standard Edition of the Revised Bible copyright, 1901, by Thomas Nelson & Sons, and used by permission).

The lesson of the temple might also be applied to our manner of using our churches. It might be applied to the attitude of men and women when they go to church and sit in the pews. We in the newspaper business have a rule for charging for printed notices. If we are asked to print a notice about a church fair which is being held to make money we require pay for that notice. If we are asked to boost something free, something which is not for the purpose of making money, we print those notices free.

I think we might adjust ourselves along that line when we consider our Sunday habits. There are a lot of things we do on Sunday today which we would not have done a generation ago, there are very different conditions today.

Some time ago there was a demand in my town that the moving picture theaters be permitted to give shows on Sundays. It was argued that the young people did not go to church in the evenings and that they went to a neighboring city to the shows where they went to places they should not go and where our own city could not regulate the pictures. I was asked to support the idea with the paper and was told that the pictures would be church pictures carefully selected.

I told the committee it was a fine idea and I would support it on one condition. The picture show men had said it as a patriotic idea to keep our boys and girls at home. If that were the idea then I was for it. Of course there would be no admission fee charged for these Sunday shows for the benefit of the town and of our boys and girls. That would be commercializing Sunday. The committee faded away and we do not have picture shows in our town on Sunday.

Jesus made a vigorous and effective protest against commercializing religion. He did not sit back as most of us do and shut his eyes while keeping his own skirts clean. He waded right into the midst of things and cleaned up the temple. And this act was the final straw which made his death certain. Touch a man's pocketbook and you touch his vitals. The Sadduces got a commission on temple sales, they got rent for temple stalls.

When we take all commercial profits out of our religion, when we no longer commercialize our churches, when we recognize the call of the Lord as he says the Lord hath need of thee, we have found the beginning of the way.

WOULD UNITE ALL CREEDS

METHODISTS APPROVE ULTIMATE CONSOLIDATION.

TO NAME COMMISSION

Resolution at Kansas City Conference Is Adopted After Much Debate.—Most Important Action.

Kansas City, Mo., May 11.—Consolidation of all the religious denominations in the United States into one huge organization was contemplated in a resolution which met the approval of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church here today.

The action was considered the most significant work yet accomplished by the conference.

After considerable debate, delegates adopted the report of the committee on the state of the church which provided for the organization of a new commission on church union, said commission "to make overtures and receive overtures from the likeminded churches, looking toward closer co-operation and union."

Finds Many Opponents.

Debate on the resolution found many church leaders opposed to the idea of union of all the churches. One of the most outstanding opponents of the plan was Charles K. Carpenter of Bailleyville, Ill. He declared that more denominations, rather than fewer, were needed to further the aims of Christianity.

"Religion will suffer by further union of denominations because, in the United States, so many persons of various backgrounds and beliefs comprise the nation," said Carpenter.

Although the commission's activities will be limited to the United States, delegates said the hope of Methodism was the ultimate union of denominations in all the nations of the world.

37 On Commission.

The proposed commission to work for union of the various denominations will be composed of seven bishops, fifteen pastors and fifteen lay members and will be appointed by the board of bishops. It will supercede the present commission on union.

Overtures toward union have been made between various denominations and between branches of churches before but this was the first time a general conference has taken action aimed at the ultimate union of all denominations.

Delegates favoring the plan said it was a significant event in the history of Methodism.

DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL AGAIN

VACATION CLASSES TO OPEN JUNE 4, CLOSE JUNE 29.

MITCHELL IN CHARGE

Ministerial Alliance Names Him Superintendent, Mrs. Leonard Bosch Principal.

The Daily Vacation Bible School of Maryville, under the supervision of the five Protestant churches, will open June 4 and close June 29. Plans are being made whereby it will be possible to use the Washington school building during the entire school period.

It is the opinion of the faculty, as well their ambition, that the attendance this year will be the largest in the history of the school a statement today said.

The Ministerial Alliance has elected the Rev. R. A. Mitchell as superintendent, and Mrs. Leonard Bosch, who has served the school efficiently at other times, will be the principal.

Friday June 1, has been set for registration day and the officials urge that it be taken advantage of in order that everything will be in readiness for the opening day, Monday, June 4, at 9 o'clock. A tuition fee of $1.00 will be charged each child. It will require $200 to carry on the work and each Sunday school will bear a proportionate share of the expense.

It is suggested that different Sunday school classes provide a scholarship or a number of them. In this way a good many children will be privileged to attend who might not be able to without this help.

Individual citizens of Maryville wishing to help provide scholarships are asked to get in touch with the Reverend Mr. Mitchell of Mrs. Bosch.

Classes will be formed for intermediate, junior, primary and kindergarten children. There will be craftwork and also a department of recreation.

The school will be closed June 29 with a pageant.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON : : : : : By Harlowe R. Hoyt and Walter Scott

THE ENTRY INTO JERUSALEM

With his disciples, Jesus climbed the hilly road on his last visit to Jerusalem. When they reached Mount Olivet, he sent two of his disciples to the town of Bethphage to bring an ass for him to ride. They found a colt tied in a doorway and took it.
When the ass was brought, a cloak was spread for a saddle and Jesus mounted the animal. Some hastened to the fields and groves, and plucked branches from the palms and olives, and other trees which grew by the wayside.
So they made their way towards the city and those who were in Jerusalem came out to meet them. A great procession was formed. Some cast their garments before the beast. Others strewed the roadway with palms and garlands. "Hosanna!" they cried. "Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord! Blessed is the kingdom that cometh, the kingdom of our father David! Hosanna in the highest!" Thus Christ made his entry into Jerusalem.

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN, AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD is "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON, farmer, the summer she is 16 and leaves the orphanage, the only home she knows from the time she is four. She meets DAVID NASH, athletic and student of scientific farming, who is working on the Carson farm for the summer. David likes the orphan, openly prefering her to PEARL, Carson's daughter. This angers Pearl and Carson.

When Carson makes insulting remarks about Sally, David hits him.

David and Sally, fearing Carson is dead, run away. At daylight they find themselves near a carnival train. Sally is overjoyed to find EDDIE COBB, former inmate of the Home, who runs away to join the carnival. He asks WINFIELD BYBEE, owner of the carnival, to make a place for them. David is placed in the cook's car, while MRS. BYBEE, the real manager of the carnival, dresses Sally in satin trousers and tunic and sends her on the platform as Princess Lalla, crystal gazer.

The midget, "PITTY SING," takes a fancy to Sally and warns her to beware of NITA. MRS. BYBEE, wife of the carnival owner, promises Sally she will go to Stanton and see if she can find any news about Sally's mother. Sally has told her about her years in the orphanage and that the only information she has about her mother is that she lived in Stanton at one time. Later in the morning when Mrs. Bybee sends for her, she goes with anxious heart.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 20

As Sally ran across lots to the side-tracked carnival train, she buried her precious new memory of David under layers of anxiety and questions. It would still be there when her questions had been answered by Mrs. Bybee, to comfort her if the showman's wife had been unsuccessful, to add to her joy if some trace of her mother had been found.

"Maybe—maybe I'll have a mother and a sweetheart, too," she marveled, as she climbed, breathless, into the coach which had been pointed out to her as the showman's private car.

It was not really a private car, for Bybee and his wife occupied only one of the drawing rooms of the ancient Pullman car, long since retired from the official service of that company. The berths were occupied on long jumps by a number of the stars of the carnival and by some of the most affluent of the concessionaires and barkers, a few of the latter being part owners of such attractions as the "girlie show" and the "diving beauties." When the carnival showed in a town for more than a day, however, the performers usually preferred to sleep in tents, rather than in the stuffy hot berths.

Since the carnival was in full swing at that hour of the day, Sally found the sleeping car deserted execept for Mrs. Bybee, who called to her from the open door of drawing room A.

The carnival owner's wife was seated at a card table, which was covered with stacks of coins and bill of all denominations. Her lean fingers pushed the stacks about, counted them, jotted the totals on a sheet of lined paper.

"I'm treasurer and paymaster for the outfit," she told Sally, satisfaction glinting in her keen gray eyes. "Me and Bill," and she lifted a big, blue-barrelled revolver from the faded green plush of the seat and twirled it unconcernedly on her thumb.

"Is business good?" Sally asked politely, as she edged fearfully into the small room.

"Might be worse," Mrs. Bybee conceded grudgingly. "Sit down, child, I'm not going to shoot you. Well, I went calling this morning," she added briskly, as she began to rake the stacks of coin into a large canvas bag.

"Oh!" Sally breathed, clasping her hands tightly in her lap. "Did you—find out anything?"

Mrs. Bybee knotted a stout string around the gathered-up mouth of the bag, rose from her seat, lifted the green plush cushion, revealing a small safe beneath the seat. When she had stowed the bag away and twirled the combination lock, she rearranged the cushion and took her seat again, all without answering Sally's anxious question.

"Reckon I'm a fool to let anyone see where I keep the coin," she ridiculed herself. "But after making a blamed fool of myself this morning over them dresses your David give you, I guess I'd better try to do something to show you I thrust you. You just keep your mouth shut about this safe, and there won't be any harm done."

"Of course I won't tell," Sally assured her earnestly. "But, please, did you find out anything?" She felt that she could not bear the suspense a minute longer.

"You let me tell this my own way, child," Mrs. Bybee reproved her. "Well, you saw that missionary rig I had on this morning? It turned the trick all right. Lucky for you, this ain't the fastest growing town in the state, even if that billboard across from the station does say so. I found the address you gave me, all right. Same number, same house. Four-or-five-room dump, that may have been a pretty good imitation of a California bungalow 12 years ago. All rundown now, with a swarm of kids tumbling in and out and sticking out their tongues at me when their ma's back was turned. She said she'd lived there two years; moved here from Wisconsin. Didn't know a soul in Stanton when she moved here, and hadn't time to get acquainted with many of her neighbors, what with a new baby every 14 months."

"Poor thing!" Sally murmured, finding pity in her heart for the bedraggled drudge Mrs. Bybee's words pictured so vividly. But those too-numerous babies had a mother. What she wanted to know was—did she, Sally Ford, have a mother?

Then a memory, so long submerged that she did not realize that it existed in her subconscious mind, pushed up, spilled out surprisingly: "There was a big oak tree in the corner of the yard. I used to swing. Someone pushed the swing—someone—" she fumbled for more, but the memory failed.

"It's still there, and there's still a swing," Mrs. Bybee admitted. "One of those dirty-faced little brats was climbing up and down the ropes like a monkey. Well, I reckon that's where you used to live, right enough. I asked this woman,—name of Hickson—if any of her neighbors had lived there many years, and she pointed to the house next door and said 'Old Lady Bangs' owned the house and had lived there for more'n 20 years. This old Mrs. Bangs—"

"Bangs!" Sally cried. "Bangs! It was Gramma Bangs who swung me! I remember now! Gramma Bangs. She made me a rag doll with shoe-button eyes and I cried every night for a long time after I went to the orphanage because mamma hadn't brought my doll. Did you see Gramma Bangs? Oh, Mrs. Bybee, if I could go to see her again!"

Mrs. Bybee's stern, long, hatchet-shaped face had softened marvelously, but at Sally's eager request she shook her head emphatically.

"Not with the police looking for you and Dave. Yes, I saw her. She's all crippled up with rheumatism and was tackled to death to see Nora Ford's sister. That's who I said I was, you know. But it pretty near got me into trouble. The old lady took it for granted I knew a lot of things about you that I didn't know, and wouldn't have told me just what I'd come to find out if I hadn't used my bean in stringing her along. I had to go mighty easy asking her about you, since it was my sister I was supposed to be so het up over finding, but lucky for you she's been reading the papers and knew that you were in trouble."

"Oh!" Sally moaned, covering her hot face with her little brown-painted hands. "Then Gramma Bangs thinks I'm a bad girl—oh! Did you tell her I'm not?"

"What do you take me for—a blamed fool?" Mrs. Bybee demanded heatedly. "I didn't let on I'd ever seen you in my life. But it was something she let spill when she was talking about you and this story in the papers that gave me the low-down on the whole thing."

"Oh, what?" Sally implored, almost frantic with impatience.

"Well, she said, 'You can't blame Nora for putting Sally in the orphanage when the money stopped coming, seeing as how she was sick and needing an operation and everything. But it pret' near broke her heart'—that's what the old dame said—"

"But—I don't understand," Sally protested, her sapphire eyes clouding with bewilderment. "The money? What money? Did she mean my—father?"

"I thought that at first, too," Mrs. Bybee nodded her bobbed gray head with satisfaction. "But lucky I didn't say so, or I'd have given the whole show away. I just 'yes, indeeded' her, and she went on. Reckon she thought I might be taking exceptions to the way she'd been running on about how pitiful it was for 'that dear little child' to be put in an orphans' home, so she tried to show me that my 'sister' had done the only thing she could do under the circumstances.

"Pretty soon it all come out. 'Nora,' she said, 'told me not to breathe a word to a soul, but seeing as how you're her sister and probably know all about it, I reckon it won't do no harm after all these years.' Then she told me that Nora Ford had no more idea'n a jack rabbit whose baby you was—"

"Then she wasn't my mother!" Sally cried out in such a heart-broken voice that Mrs. Bybee reached across the card table and patted her hands, dirty diamonds twinkling on her withered fingers.

"No, she wasn't your mother," the showman's wife conceded with brusque sympathy. "But I can't see as how it leaves you any worse off than you was before. One thing ought to comfort you—you know it wasn't your own mother that turned you over to an orphanage and then beat it, leaving no address. Seems like," she went on briskly, "from what old lady Bangs told me, that Nora Ford had been hired to take you when she was a maid in a swell home in New York, and she had to beat it—that was part of the agreement—so there never would be any scandal on your real mother. She didn't know whose kid you was—so the old lady says—and when the money orders stopped coming suddenly she didn't have the least idea how to trace your people. She supposed they was dead—and I do, too. So it looks like you'd better make up your mind to being an orphan—"

"But, oh, Mrs. Bybee!" Sally cried piteously, her eyes wide blue pools of misery and shame. "My real mother must have been—bad, or she wouldn't have been ashamed of having me! Oh, I wish I hadn't found out!" And she laid her head down on her arms on the card table and burst into tears.

"Don't be a little fool!" Mrs. Bybee admonished her severely. "Reckon it ain't up to you, Sally Ford, to set yourself up in judgment on your mother, whoever she may have been."

"But she sent me away," Sally sobbed brokenly. "She was ashamed of me, and then forgot all about me. Oh, I wish I'd never been born!"

"I reckon every kid's said that a hundred times before she's old enough to have good sense," Mrs. Bybee scoffed. "Now dry up and scoot to the dress tent to put some more make-up on your face. The show goes on. And take it from me, (child, you're better off than a lot of girls that join up with the carnival. You're young and pretty and you've got a boy friend that'd commit murder for you and pret' near did it, and you've got a job that gives you a bed and cakes, and enough loose change to buy yourself some glad rags by the time we hit the Big Town—"

"The Big Town?" Sally raised her head, interest dawning unwillingly in her grieved blue eyes. "You mean—New York?"

"Sure I mean New York. We go into winter quarters there in November, and if you stick to the show I may be able to land you a job in the chorus. God knows you are pretty enough—just the type to make every six-footer want to fight any other man that looks at you."

"Oh, you're good to me!" Sally blinked away the last of her tears, which had streaked her brown make-up. "I'll stick, if the police don't get me—and David. And," she paused at the door, her eyes shy and sweet, "thank you so very much for trying to help me find my—my mother."

As she sped down the aisle of the car in her noiseless little red sandals she was startled to see what looked like a sheaf of yellow, dried grass whisked through the closing door of the women's dressing room. Then comprehension dawned. "I wonder," she took time from the contemplation of her desolating disappointment to muse, "what Nita is doing here. I wonder if she followed me—if she heard anything. I wouldn't want Nita to know about my mother. But I'll tell David. Will he despise me because my mother was—bad?"

Nita is plotting some mischief, as Sally finds out later.

Road Grading Done in Vicinity of Pickering

An Especially Good Job Near Wiley And Simmons Farms.—Corn Planting Is Rushed.

By O. G. Null

PICKERING — The township road grader is at work this week on the road designated as state highway last fall, and is now working near Mozingo Valley.

The road is being widened and along a part of the way the high banks at the side of the road have been sloped so that they will not cave down and thus obstruct the gutters at the roadside.

The job done on the hill by the J. W. Wiley and E. C. Simmons farms deserves special mention as the appearance of both road and farms have been much improved by sloping the high banks on each side of the road.

Corn planting has been rushed this week and as a result a large portion of the planting will be completed by the end of the week.

The first fields, planted about two weeks ago, are up, and promise a good stand of corn.

The ground is working well, though it is drying out quickly and a good rain would be appreciated.

The grass and small grain especially are showing the effect of the dry weather.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Maxwell and family of St. Joseph visited here last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eri Bosch, parents of Mrs. Maxwell.

Mrs. Agnes Lunte and daughters, Misses Huldah, and Ruth, and Miss Josie Sadler drove to Oregon, Mo., last Sunday afternoon in the Lunte car.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Swinford and daughter, Jean, visited at Rock Port last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Buchanan and daughter, Doris Jane, of Falls City, Neb., are visiting here this week at the home of Mrs. Buchanan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Null, and with other relatives in this vicinity.

A. E. Eldridge has been quite ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. G. McMillen, and Mr. McMillen, for the past two weeks and shows very little improvement.

Mrs. Anna Hornbuckle returned home last Monday after a few days visit at the home of her son, James Hornbuckle, near Barnard.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hornbuckle and family moved last Tuesday to Maryville, where Mr. Hornbuckle will be in the employe of the A. and P. grocery store.

Faye, jr., the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Florea, underwent an operation for mastoid trouble Thursday afternoon at the hospital in Maryville. At last accounts he was doing nicely and the operation was apparently successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Hornbuckle of Kansas City spent last Sunday here at the home of Mr. Hornbuckle's sister, Mrs. George Hantze, and Mr. Hantze. Mrs. Robert Bosick, and two children, of Griswold, Ia., are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mann, and other relatives here this week.

Harold McGuire the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks, is somewhat improved but not able to be up this week.

A. J. Sturgill is recovering slowly from a serious illness but is not yet able to be out.

Steers Strong on St. Joseph Market

Sheep and Lambs Bearish, With Springers 50 to 75c Off.—Hogs Top at $9.70.

South St. Joseph, Mo., May 11.—Smaller cattle deliveries proved favorable and developed strong to 25c higher beef steer and yearling prices, according to the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics weekly review. The greatest gains accrued to yearlings and beef steers selling below $13. Fed steers and yearlings bulked at $11.50 to $13.50 with odd lots up to $14 and mixed steer and heifer yearlings at $13.35. Slaughter heifers shared the strength and good to choice offerings sold freely at $11.50 to $12.75. Most other killing classes ruled steady to strong. Beef cows bulked at $8.50 to $10.25 and choice descriptions reached $11. All cutters cleared largely at $6. to $7.25. Medium bulls sold mostly at $8 to $8.50. Veals advanced 50c and topped freely at $13. Stockers and feeders continued scarce, but indicated weak to 25c lower prices. Choice strong weight feeders scored $12.

Hogs

Irregular fluctuations were evidenced but values retained some strength. Choice 200 to 215-lb butchers topped late at $9.70 while the bulk of 180 to 260-lb. weights were noted at $9.50 to $9.65. Butchers that scaled from 270 to 300-lb cleared around $9.35. Packing sows ruled strong to 25c higher with the majority at $8.25 to $8.50 while a few smooth lightweights brought $8.75.

Sheep.

Sheep and lamb demand proved bearish, with matured lambs mostly 25c lower and spring lambs 50 to 75c off. Aged stock was 50 to 75c lower and yearlings showed little change. Clipped lambs sold up to $15.25 and wooled offerings cleared at $17 to $17.25. California and Arizona springers topped freely at $17.75 with native spring lambs noted up to $17.25. Clipped yearlings sold around $15.75. Shorn ewes topped at $8.50.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, May 11.—Wheat lacked confidence today and trading was unsettled on the board of trade, with the belief general that there will be more liquidation before the market becomes settled. Corn had an early advance but dropped late in the day while oats failed to maintain a sharp rally. Provisions were unchanged.

Closing prices: Wheat: ⅜c to 1⅛c up; corn off ¼c to ½c higher; oats: ⅜c to 1c up.

Wheat had an early upturn due to reports that 1,000,000 bushels had been sold for export overnight and continued reports of dry weather in the spring wheat belt. Trading was reduced in volume and was generally unsettled with little confidence on either side. Considerable long wheat appeared today and more liquidation is expected, the cash market with 115 cars received was unchanged.

Corn advanced early but failed to hold. Favorable planting weather was reported. Many small orders appeared from all over the country. Receipts were 133 cars and the cash marekt dropped ½ to 1c.

Oats rallied early in the day but lator lost the gain. There was no news of significance. The cash market, with receipts of 124 cars was ½c higher.

TEAMS INTO THIRD ROUND

INTERESTING DIAMOND TILTS LOOM IN COUNTY LEAGUE.

TESTS FOR LEADERS

Quitman to Give Clearmont a Battle, as Will Barnard at Bolckow.—Burlington Here.

There will be a merry old time in the Nodaway county baseball league Sunday when the teams line up for the third games of the season. Neighborhood rivalry will play a big part in these games.

Barnard will go to Bolckow, a few miles down the road, to settle a dispute as to which town has the best team in those parts. Bolckow, tied with Clearmont for the lead, has won both its games, and Barnard, one of the outstanding teams of the county league last year, will be fighting to pull its neighbor down a notch.

Clearmont will travel over to Quitman and a mean battle is predicted between these pill swatters. Quitman lost its first home game of the season by a large score and will suffer agony until it can square itself with the loyal fans around there. Clearmont, a new member of the league, is standing on top of the heap and when these two teams clash some fast ball can be expected.

Guilford will take a long journey over to Hopkins, and in this case it will be a team from extreme southeast part of the county playing a nine not far from the Missouri-Iowa line. Guilford and Burlington Junction are holding down seventh and eighth positions, each with two games lost, while Hopkins has broken even in the two games played.

And when Burlington Junction comes to Maryville, a rivalry of long standing in athletic prowess of all kinds will no doubt crop out.

The Maryville battery probably will be Buhler or Arrington and Laughlin. Buhler started for Maryville at Clearmont last Sunday but was given poor support, and Arrington, who followed him on the mound, likewise found his support weak.

Williams and Nedro probably will be the choice for the Barnard batteries, and Wampler, who has won two games for Bolckow may try to put over a third win Sunday.

Thorburn and Henning have been doing a good job for Hopkins and are slated for the job again, while Inman and Carmichael make a good pair for the Quitman defense and Norris and Hagey carrying the bulk of the burden for Clearmont.

Dartmouth Star Easy Winner Over Big Munn

Boston, May 11.—The popular theory that a good big man will always beat a good little man was exploded in a wrestling bout here last night.

Gus Sonnenberg, former all-American football star at Dartmouth, tossed Wayne "Big" Munn of Nebraska twice in less than two minutes to win his 28th consecutive mat match.

Sonnenberg is 5 feet six inches tall, while Munn is 6 feet five inches. Munn at 270 had a weight advantage of about 70 pounds.

Success Only to the Thinker, Says Dawson

Judge Tells Conception Junction Graduates to Concentrate.—Would Teach Respect for Law.

Stressing the value of an education and urging his youthful hearers to avail themselves of the opportunities offered by the schools of this county, Judge John M. Dawson, judge of the fourth judicial circuit, told the Conception Junction high school and eighth grade graduates last night that no great success ever was attained except by men who are thinkers.

Judge Dawson delivered the commencement address for the Conception Junction graduates at the opera house there before a packed house. He was introduced by G. L. Purcell, president of the Conception Junction school board.

The more education the better opportunity a person has for success, and all great successes are due to the fact that men have been trained to think while obtaining their education, the judge declared. Most anything can be accomplished by concentration and by giving the best in thought and effort, Judge Dawson said. He told the students to concentrate on their studies while they have the opportunity to attend schools.

He said Americans are to be congratulated that they live in a country which provides opportunities for the youth of the land, stating that the boy and girl who are graduated from a college or university are the "first persons sought by the big interests of the countries to do big things."

Judge Dawson suggested that the children in the early grades, whose minds then are in the most retentive period, should receive some instructions along the lines of the necessity of law and its purposes, in this way developing a respect for the law by generations which follow.

The speaker also stated that no one makes a success unless he is thoroughfull attention to the problems of life. full atention to the problems of life.

HAGEN AGAIN GOLF CHAMP

AMERICAN GOLFER WINS BRITISH OPEN TITLE.

SARAZEN IS SECOND

Juardo, Leading by 3 Strokes as Play Begins, "Cracks" Under Last-Round Strain.

Sandwich, Eng., May 11.—Walter Hagen today succeeded Bobby Jones as British open golf champion, winning the title for the third time with a splendid aggregate of 292.

The American P. G. A. titleholder played two brilliant par rounds over the Royal St. George's course, steady as clock work, while his more temperamental rivals cracked, and later stepped smilingly up to receive the historic cup from the hands of the Prince of Wales.

It was at this same Sandwich course that Hagen first won the British open in 1922 with an aggregate of 300. He won again at Hoy Lake in 1924 with 301.

Sarzen Close Behind.

Little Gene Sarzen of New York was close at Hagen's heels with an aggregate of 294.

Gene started the final round one stroke behind the new champion, but where Hagen continued to reel off hole after hole in par figures, Sarzen was unequal to the task.

Needing a 71 to tie, Sarzen took 73, which left him with a total two strokes behind Hagen. Sarzen's game fight for second place, however, compared favorably with the last round efforts of Wild Bill Mehlhorn and Jose Jurado, both of whom cracked and went to pieces.

Leading Hagen by three strokes when the day's play started, little Jurado from Buenos Aires blew up and lost 12 strokes to the new title holder, finishing with rounds of 76 and 80 for a total of 301.

Barnes Ties Jurado.

Long Jim Barnes, who won the British open in 1925, was too far behind to catch Hagen, but turned in rounds of 76-73 to tie Jurado at 301.

Mehlhorn's play today was extremely erratic, and he finished with 76-77 for a total of 302.

Archie Compston, British professional, who defeated Hagen so soundly at match play last month, led the home breds with a total of 295, thre strokes behind Hagen and a stroke behind Sarzen.

Fred Robson, British professional, took a 75 on his last round and tied Percy Alliss of Berlin for fourth place, with a total of 298.

Barnes, Jurado and Aubrey Boomer of St. Cloud, France, tied for sixth with 301.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD.

By United Press

Yesterday's Hero: Babe Ruth, who broke up a pitchers' battle at Yankee stadium with one of the longest homers of his career, putting him two up on his 1927 record. The Bambino's seventh of the season scored two Yanks ahead of him and enabled New York to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 2.

The New York Giants battery of Fitzsimmons and Hogan did most of the hitting which enabled the league leaders to nose out the Pirates, 5 to 4, and increase their hold on first place by a full game. Pittsburgh dropped to fifth.

A wild tenth inning featured the Cincinnati-Boston game, the Braves breaking a 3 to 3 tie by scoring 4 runs, and then checking the Reds after the latter had scored three times in their half. Carl Mays was the victim in the big inning which gave Boston a 7 to 6 victory.

The St. Louis Cardinals are up in third place as a result of their fourth consecutive victory, scored over the hapless Phillies, 5 to 4.

Faced with demands for a shake-up, Manager Ray Schalk shifted the White Sox line-up and got the club out of the cellar with a 9 to 2 victory over the Red Sox, who helped matters along with six errors.

"Fat" Fothergill, restored to the Detroit outfield, scored Gehringer with the winning run in the tenth, the Tigers defeating the Senators, 6 to 4. The Tigers now have a percentage of .881 in the American League averages.

The Athletics won their fifth straight game at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, making 19 hits in the course of an 11 to 1 victory.

Jurado and Hagen to Play at Philadelphia

Sandwich, Eng., May 11.—Jose Jurado, the diminutive Argentine professional golfer who led the field for two rounds in the British open championship, will compete against Walter Hagen in a special match at Philadelphia on June 10, he said today.

It was learned that Aubrey Boomer and Archie Compston, two of the prominent British professionals, planned to enter the United States open championship this season and later have a special match with Gene Sarazen and MacDonald Smith at the Lakeille Country Club.

Bob O'Farrell Traded to New York Giants

1927 Manager of St. Louis Cardinals Follows in Footsteps of Rogers Hornsby.

St. Louis, May 11.—Following in the footsteps of his predecessor, Bob O'Farrell, 1927 manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, has been traded to the New York Giants, just as was Rogers Hornsby.

O'Farrell, provided the physical disabilities that kept him from recent games may be overcome, will go to John McGraw's club in exchange for the veteran outfielder, George Harper. The trade became known last night.

St. Louis fans were almost as puzzled over this sudden shift of the popular O'Farrell as they were two years ago when Hornsby, who had led the Cardinals to their first championship, suddenly was sent to New York in exchange for Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Ring. However, in the Hornsby case it was known he wanted much more money and was not in full accord with some of the officials of the Cardinals.

But there have been few, if any hints, that O'Farrell wasn't getting on.

Lamkin to Speak to Sedalia Graduates

Creamo MARGARIN

Why do Thousands of Housewives Choose Creamo?

Because they know from experience and comparison that it is as fine a spread for bread as any they can buy. They know it is pure and wholesome and that it always has a rich, creamy flavor. For every pound of Creamo is churned in pure, rich cream.

They know, too, that since using Creamo they have noticed a difference in table expense — without having the family notice a difference at the table.

Creamo Oil is wonderfully good, too. Use it wherever your recipe calls for a cooking or salad oil.

Your grocer sells Creamo under this guarantee—if you are not entirely pleased, he will cheerfully refund your money.
